Derek Brown is the Managing Director of Actorshop Ltd which produces I8r, a health education series broadcast by the BBC. Running for eight years, it has been voted one of the three most creative children's programmes by Broadcast Magazine and has won the Royal Television Society Education Award, the Basel-Karlsruhe Multimedia Award, and three BAFTA's plus two further BAFTA nominations. (The BAFTA is the US equivalent of the Academy Awards.) Derek has also created and managed several large events and programmes including seven international festivals of theatre-in-education and three London young playwrights' festivals.
